Latin America has achieved encouraging results in addressing the under-registration of births. However, access to personal documentation continues to be a barrier for vulnerable groups. Without identification papers, individuals cannot access basic public services and their fundamental rights are violated. Join us for a debate about civil registration and inclusion in Latin America.

Speakers:

- Judge Raquel Chrispino: Recipient of the 2013 Brazilian Human Rights Award
- Cláudio Machado: Consultant for development agencies on reform of civil registration and identification systems
- Arturo Munte Kunigami: Expert on civil registration, identity, and digital government
