Why are conferences important? How do you get a conference paper published? This roundtable will explore some of the main advantages of conference attendance & publication. Panelists will discuss how you can use the work you do in the department, build your network at conference, and ultimately take your conference experience and turn that into a publication. Students will learn practical tips in self-identifying valuable work, identifying what part of your work to highlight in a presentation, processing feedback from the audience, and editing a conference paper for publication.
