

1:00 PM - 2:30 PM - Graduate Student Research

Juan Pablo Morales Garza, History, UCLA

México y sus alrededores:

los pueblos nahuas del Valle de México en el siglo XIX.

Beatríz Cruz López, History, UCLA

Disputas por tributarios y tributos del Valle de Oaxaca en el siglo XVI:

los casos de Tlacolula, Teitipac y Huitzo.

Anthony Meyer, Art History, UCLA

"Where They Bud, Where They Blossom":

Life and Learning at the Calmecac of Tenochtitlan.

Moderator: Fernando Pérez-Montesinos, Dept. of History, UCLA

2:45 PM - 4:00 PM - Teaching the Conquest of Mexico in LAUSD High School Classrooms

Maria-Georgina Salazar

Alexander Hamilton High School

Reyna Kaul

Alliance Marc and Eva Stern Math and Science School

Melina Melgoza

Roybal Learning Center

Moderator: Veronica Zavala Jacobo,

LAI Public Engagement & Educational Outreach Coordinator, UCLA

4:00 PM - Closing Remarks

Conference organized and sponsored by the UCLA Latin American Institute

Co-Sponsored by:

Stanford Center for Latin American Studies

UCLA International Institute

UCLA DEPARTMENT OF SPANISH & PORTUGUESE

Since 2015 the UCLA Latin American Institute (LAI) has collaborated with the Instituto de Docencia e Investigación Etnológica de Zacatecas (IDIEZ) in Mexico to teach Nahuatl at UCLA. Native speakers of Nahuatl teach a variant of the language spoken today in the Huasteca region of Veracruz. UCLA offers three years of language instruction to undergraduate and graduate students at the beginning, intermediate and advanced levels--nine courses in all. The LAI shares costs with the Latin American Centers at Stanford University, UC Berkeley, and the University of Utah in an alliance to promote the study of Nahuatl in the western United States. These centers hold annual conferences, organize pedagogical workshops for teachers, provide funding for special projects related to the learning of Nahuatl language and culture.

For more information about the UCLA Nahuatl Program, please contact lai@international.ucla.edu.